Description:

A rhetoric that bridges the gap between the writing students already do in social media and other nonacademic contexts and the writing they're expected to do in college—all within a strong rhetorical framework.

Built on the keystones of rhetoric, Everyone's an Author provides a strong foundation for authoring in the digital age: in college essays, but also on Twitter; in print, but also online; with words, but also with sound, video, and images. It shows students that the rhetorical skills they already use in social media, in their home and religious communities, at work and in other nonacademic contexts are the same ones they'll need to succeed in college. Examples and readings drawn from across multiple media and dealing with topics that matter to students today make this a book that everyone who takes first-year writing will relate to.

In the first edition of this book, we answered that question with an emphatic "yes!" and hoped teachers and students would agree. We're happy to say they did, embracing what is now even more obvious than it was during the years we spent drafting that first edition: that writers today have important things to say and want indeed demand to be heard, and that anyone with access to a computer can publish their writing, can in fact become an author.
