Interview. Written by. Srobert344. Suggested Resources. Case Interview Complete Guide. McKinsey Case Interview. BCG & Bain Case Interview. Case Interview Questions. Case Interview Frameworks. Media.Â Unlike McKinsey, BCG and Bain case interviews typically follow the candidate-led format â€œ which is the opposite of interviewer-led, with the candidate driving the case progress by actively breaking down problems in their own way. The key to acing candidate-led cases is to master the case interview fundamental concepts as well as the frameworks. Some BCG and Bain offices also utilize written case interviews â€œ you have to go through a pile of data slides, select the most relevant ones to answer a set of interviewer questions, then deliver those answers in a presentation.

Suggested Resources. Case Interview Complete Guide. McKinsey Case Interview. BCG & Bain Case Interview. Some BCG and Bain offices also utilize written case interviews – you have to go through a pile of data slides, select the most relevant ones to answer a set of interviewer questions, then deliver those answers in a presentation. For a detailed guide on candidate-led cases, check out our article on BCG & Bain Case Interview. Should I be expecting cases like those in Case in Point, or more like your examples? Thanks so much for your time and help. P.S. I haven't listened to LOMS yet, but I plan to soon, so maybe that will answer my question. My Reply

Everything in the case interview process happens for a reason. What firms want more than anything is to have happy clients that gladly pay very large fees. Literally every aspect of a case interview can be back traced to some specific type of client situation the consulting firm wants to replicate, or negative situation they desperately want to avoid.
