Confetti: Poems for Children is a collection of 13 poems and was on the Americas Award commended list for 1996. I got an inter-library loaned book which happened to be a signed copy from Pat Mora in which he wrote "Welcome to my Desert." The poems celebrate the exquisiteness of the Southwest as experienced by Mexican Americans. Spanish words are integrated into the text and a glossary is included as well. The dreamy-like illustrations remind me of someone recalling their childhood with fondness.

Confetti: Poemas para Niños. In this joyful and spirited collection, award-winning poet Pat Mora and fine artist Enrique O. Sanchez celebrate the vivid landscape of the Southwest and the delightful rapport that children share with the natural world. "This collection of poems which vibrantly reflects the Mexican American culture in the Southwest, appeals to the child in all of us. The lively rhythms, interspersed with Spanish words, depict the treasures of a child's life in the Southwest." Recommended for all children's collections. "â€" Review of Texas Books. If you and your partner already have a child, then this poem is a great choice for them to read on your wedding day. Emotional and funny, this poem will tug on everyone's heartstrings. Mum and Dad Get married Today, I'd Like to help them on their way. So here's some special advice from me, To help them with our family. Keep our house filled with laughter Let's have fun forever after. Keep the drawer filled up with sweets, And give us children lots of treats. Make sure you spend time together, To keep your happiness forever. Make sure you spend lots on us, And then us kids won't make a fuss.
